2004-05 Neubauer PEER Educator Award

The Neubauer PEER Educator Award was initiated in 2002 by the students in the PEER Educator group in order to give recognition to a faculty or staff member and a student who has manifested the mission statement of the PEER Educators; this mission is to promote well being, encourage healthy behavioral choices and heighten awareness of social health issues within the La Salle University Community.

This year's Faculty/Staff recipient is MaryEllen Wydan, Senior Women's Administrator in the Athletic Department. Through her position as advisor for the Athletic Relations Council, MaryEllen Wydan has encouraged athletes to become more educated and aware of the health issues impacting them. Athletes at the collegiate level are at risk for a variety of health issues: alcohol abuse, drug use, and even eating disorders. Knowing this, MaryEllen Wydan has taken an active role in promoting PEER Educator programming to La Salle University's student-athlete population. She has promoted such PEER events as Eating Disorder Awareness Week and supported PEER initiated programs addressing pertinent health topics such as Drug and Alcohol misuse and Date Rape. MaryEllen Wydan tirelessly invests herself in the well being of the student athletes; this award recognizes the energy and dedication MaryEllen Wydan brings to the work she does.

The Student recipient of this year's PEER Award is Jennifer Benincasa. Jen was chosen for this year's PEER Educator award due to her quiet but extremely active devotion to addressing health issues both on campus and off. Jen holds officer positions in Operation Smile, AED pre-med honor society, the Biology club, and the Health Occupations Students of America (HOSA). She is also an active member of the Cancer Awareness Reaching Everyone (CARE). Other involvements in campus life include being a volunteer for Project Appalachia, a member of the Italian Club, Central and Eastern European Society, Karate club and being a tutor for the ADP program. Jen is currently a 2nd Lieutenant in the US Army. She will continue to address health issues in her future as she will be attending PCOM next year for oncology or hematology. Jen received the Neubauer PEER Educator Award due to her efforts in addressing social health and medical issues, global and cultural understanding, and service to others.

Congratulations to MaryEllen Wydan and Jen Benincasa!

Division of Student Affairs

Student Affairs Committee- April 20, 2005

Members Present: Joseph Cicala (chair), James Brightman, Katie Daniels, Evelyn Klein, Kevin Martin, Margaret McCoey, Lane Neubauer, Erin Oakes, Patrice Oppliger, Leo Schwartz. Guests: University Ministry and Service staff members Br. Chip Echelmeier, Louise Giugliano, Marie Cantwell, Sr. Eileen McGowan, Steve Kopec, Becky Messa.

Members Absent: Michael Nicholas, Rejeanne Richard, Nikki Schwartz.

1. Mr. Schwartz led us in a moment of prayer and reflection.
2. Minutes of our March 15, 2005 meeting were reviewed and approved.
3. Members, particularly those whose terms of appointment conclude at the end of this academic year, were thanked and commended for their service to our committee and the University.
4. Members were asked to watch their e-mail for notice of any matters that may require our attention following the conclusion of this, our final scheduled meeting for this academic year.
5. Discussion today, with guests from our University Ministry and Service (UMAS) staff, centered on our Council for the Advancement of Standards (CAS) study of UMAS. We covered today parts 1-4 (mission, program, leadership, organization and management) and, to some extent, part 9 (equity and access). Further review of the materials will be conducted by Dr. Cicala and the UMAS staff in the coming weeks and months; committee members may be called upon for participation in discussions and the committee will be briefed at an early fall meeting, as well.

Among the elements that arose in today's discussion were general agreements that students who participate in UMAS programs and activities, particularly those who serve in student liturgical ministry and in community service groups, are reaping multiple rewards of growth and learning through involvement; that UMAS's mission is complementary to those of the University and the Division of Student Affairs; and that UMAS's human, physical, and fiscal resources are being well-managed and well-used.

Some of the concerns that have emerged from our study and discussion center on the challenges presented by the spread of UMAS over two locations (De La Salle Chapel/College Hall and Benilde Hall) and differences between and among committee members and UMAS staff members with regard to the perceived degrees to which UMAS, in its campus ministry functions, does, can, and/or should serve the spiritual development and sustenance needs of Catholic students and students of or seeking other faiths. It was agreed that clarifications of UMAS's relative degrees of responsibility along that continuum are essential to planning for UMAS's future.

Respectfully Submitted By:
Joseph J. Cicala, Ph.D.
Dean of Students
