Non Campus Mentis
-World History According To College Students
By Anders Henriksson

Reviewed by Courtney E. Bowers

History lovers and haters alike will find this compilation both interesting and thoroughly amusing. Professor Anders Henriksson collected 30 years worth of small mistakes and egregious errors from college papers and bluebook exams to create this quick history of the world. Coupled with excellent graphics and witty captions, it makes an excellent read for anyone who has ever suffered through mind numbing history lectures and 4 AM term papers. Even those with no interest in history or only a basic knowledge of the happenings of the world will be able to appreciate this zany text written by confused college students. If only all history books were this enjoyable.
