Two International Figures Honored At La Salle Convocation

Two internationally known figures of "vision, energy and dedication," Cardinal Myroslav Ivan Lubachivsky, the spiritual leader of nine million Ukrainian Catholics world wide, and Renee C. Fox, Ph.D., Annenberg Professor of the Social Sciences at the University of Pennsylvania, were honored at La Salle University's Fall Honors Convocation on Sunday, October 23rd in the Ballroom, on campus.

La Salle's Brother President Patrick Ellis, Ph.D., F.S.C., presided over the Convocation presenting Cardinal Lubachivsky with an honorary doctor of laws degree and Renee Fox with an honorary doctor of humane letters. Brother Patrick also honored 480 La Salle University Dean's List students at the Convocation, including 167 from the university's Evening Division.

Dr. Miroslav Labunka, Ph.D., associate professor of history at La Salle, sponsored Cardinal Lubachivsky and Judith Stull, assistant professor of sociology, social work and criminal justice at La Salle, sponsored Renee Fox.

Lubachivsky, who was recognized as "a teacher, scholar, priest and Archbishop of Philadelphia who always practiced the Christian virtues of charity, sacrifice and self-denial" was born in the Western Ukraine in 1914. At the age of 23 he left his country to pursue theological studies.

He was ordained a priest in 1938 in Austria. Since the Ukrainian Catholic Church was liquidated in the Soviet Union in 1946, Cardinal Lubachivsky has been an exile from his country for more than 40 years.

"Modest and God-fearing by nature, he is the embodiment of his church—downtrodden and persecuted in his homeland," the Cardinal's citation said in part. "Unshakably firm in his faith and in his love of God, he is his country's living symbol of its resistance to evil and its ability to prevail despite all odds."

The Cardinal served in numerous places, including Cleveland, Oh., Richmond, Va., and Stamford, Ct. before coming to Philadelphia in 1979. At that time Pope John Paul II appointed him Metropolitan-Archbishop of Philadelphia's 78,000 Ukrainian Catholics.

In 1984 Cardinal Lubachivsky assumed the position of Primate of the worldwide Ukrainian Catholic Church. After 33 years in the United States he now resides in Rome.

Although Russia has outlawed the Ukrainian Catholic Church, it continues to exist clandestinely in the catacombs of the Ukraine. This year marked the millennial celebration of the introduction of Christianity into the Ukraine and the event was commemorated both in and out of the Ukraine.

Dr. Fox, professor of sociology at the University of Pennsylvania in the Departments of Sociology, Psychiatry and Medicine, was honored for her teaching and research contributions "to the ethics of organ transplants; the social meaning of death; the impact of social upheaval on Chinese medicine; and on the role of religion in Belgium or in Africa."

Dr. Fox has taught at Barnard College, and Columbia University. As a visiting professor she also taught at Harvard University, the Universite Officielle du Congo, Sir George Williams University in Canada, and the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven and the Universite de l'Etat a Liege in Belgium.

La Salle's Brother President Patrick Ellis, F.S.C., Ph.D., (left) and the Honorary Degree recipients, Cardinal Myroslav Ivan Lubachivsky (center) and Dr. Renee C. Fox, Ph.D., take a moment to chat before the Convocation Ceremonies on Sunday, October 23.

Dr. Fox has held several positions in many professional associations and a number of boards such as the Institute for Intercultural Studies, the African Studies Association and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Her major teaching and research interests, the sociology of medicine, medical research, and medical education, have led her to make first-hand studies in Europe and Central Africa and the U.S. She is the author of Experiment Perilous and Essays In Medical Sociology and co-author of The Emerging Physician and The Courage to Fail. She has received a number of honorary degrees from institutions in this country and abroad.
