Re: USA Today Academic All American Team

Reproduced below is a copy of the memo sent to us by the USA Today editor announcing this year's competition. You might recall that last year one of our seniors, Andrea Kelly, was selected as a third team member. If you have a student you would like to nominate, please contact my office and I will forward to you a copy of the nomination/application form. The deadline for applying is November 30.

USA TODAY, in cooperation with four higher education associations, is beginning its annual search for the nation's best college students. Sixty of them will be named to our 1992 All-USA Academic Team.

We use the word "team" to draw a parallel to athletic honors and to send a message that academic skills deserve at least equal recognition to scoring touchdowns and sinking jump shots.

The recognition, however, will be more than equal. The students selected to our first, second and third teams will be featured in a special section of our newspaper, planned for mid-February. The 20 first-team members will be invited to receive their awards at a ceremony in Washington, D.C.

Each of the first team members will receive a $2,500 cash award.

We invite you and your faculty to nominate a qualifying student on the enclosed form. To nominate more than one student, please duplicate the form.

Any full-time undergraduate is eligible. Each nomination must be signed by a faculty member familiar with the student's work and an administrator.

Criteria for the team were developed in consultation with our co-sponsors, the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities (NAICU), the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges (NASULGC), the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education (AACTE) and the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE).

Winners will be selected by a panel of educators, chosen in cooperation with our co-sponsors.

The criteria are designed to find students who excel not only in scholarship but in leadership roles on and off campus.

The key element, to be given most weight by the judges, will be a student's outstanding original academic or intellectual product. The judges will be influenced by the student's ability to describe that outstanding endeavor in his/her own words. They will not read an author's work, see an artist's painting or hear a composer's music. They will rely solely on the student's ability to describe the effort in writing, supplemented by recommendations from the nominating professor and up to three other persons of the nominee's choice.

To be official, a nomination/application will have to be signed by an "administrator/dean".

The Alcohol I.Q. Network

Available on computers #10511 & #10512 in the Connelly
word processor computer room #109

Welcome to the Alcohol I.Q. Network (AIQN). This is software designed to provide basic information about alcohol, its use, and its effect on the consumer. This information is provided in a confidential way (no one will know anything about the user other than his/her status as student/faculty, Freshman, Sophomore, Junior, Senior, etc), without preaching or moralizing about alcohol or its use.

To access AIQN, follow these underlined keystroke commands on computers #10511 or #10512 in room 109 Connelly, first floor.

C:> cd\IQ

C:> IQ>IQ

These two (2) commands will place you in the AIQN system. Once in, follow the on screen instructions. You can choose between three (3) separate programs:

1. "Spirited Information" is everything you ever wanted to know about alcohol and its consumption.

2. "Alcohol IQ Quest" is a trivia game based upon the information provided in #1.

3. "Private Stock" offers the opportunity to review your own alcohol use habits and identify any low/high risk drinking behaviors you may engage in.

For more information about alcohol, its use, or a concern about your or someone else's use call 951-1355.

Date: October 31, 1991
Re: Delivery of time sheets

Recently the Financial Aid Office has received time sheets that have been delivered by students. This is to serve as a reminder that work study time sheets are not to be delivered by students. Time sheets should be sent to the Financial Aid Office either in a sealed envelop through Campus Mail or delivered by a regular employee (secretary, faculty member or administrator). This procedure is not meant to complicate your schedule, but is a preventive measure. There have been cases in the past where time sheets have been altered.

Thank you in advance for your cooperation in this matter. Please do not hesitate to contact our office with any questions.
