La Salle receives grants from W.W. Smith to meet students' financial needs

PHILADELPHIA -- La Salle University has received a $88,000 grant for student scholarships and a $10,000 grant to help two seniors finish their last year of college from the W.W. Smith Charitable Trust of Newtown Square.

In keeping with the guidelines of the Program, the grants are for full-time undergraduate students who demonstrate financial need and have a minimum grade point average of 2.50. The two recipients of the $10,000 grant are La Salle seniors who previously received support from the foundation.

Brother Michael McGinniss, president of La Salle University, applauded the W.W. Smith program. "Since 1863, succeeding generations of men and women have reaped the benefits of a Lasallian education," he said. "As we embark on a new century, the financial support we receive from benefactors such as The W.W. Smith Charitable Trust will make a critical difference in our efforts to make La Salle's tradition of excellent, values-based education available to students who might not be able to afford it otherwise."

The Trust is named for the corporate leader who headed Kewanee Industries for nearly 30 years. In addition to developing the enterprise into a successful and diversified business with activities related to the oil and chemical industries, Smith participated in many educational, health and charitable organizations before his untimely death in 1976.

The Trust's grants for student financial aid are made to full-time undergraduate students at accredited colleges and universities in the counties of Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Montgomery and Philadelphia. Supplementing existing levels of scholarship aid for lower income and middle income students who could not otherwise attend college is a core focal point of the Trust. Since 1977, the Trust has donated more than $106 million to area institutions to support medical research, college financial aid, and food, clothing and shelter for children and the aged.

La Salle is a comprehensive, coeducational university established in 1863 by the Christian Brothers, a Roman Catholic teaching order. Today, the university educates more than 6,500 undergraduate and graduate students in nearly 60 academic disciplines at its four campuses in Philadelphia and the surrounding counties. One of seven Christian Brother colleges and universities in America and one of 72 around the world, La Salle is built on a strong tradition of quality education, service to students and overall excellence.

Joe Gillespie will be leaving La Salle University after eight years as the Director of Academic Support Services for Student Athletes. Joe was with La Salle before that as tutorial coordinator for both men's and women's basketball. He has become both advisor and friend to all athletes, a valued and respected colleague to the faculty and staff. Joe will be taking a faculty position at Neumann College. We congratulate him on this appointment even as we regret his departure.

In recognition of Joe's many dedicated years of service to the University, especially the Student Athletes, we invite you to join us for a farewell reception on Thursday, August 10, 2000 in the Dunleavy Room from 12 - 2 p.m.
