La Salle University Receives Grants To Be Used for Scholarship Funding from the W. W. Smith Charitable Trust

La Salle University has recently received two grants totaling $94,000 from the W.W. Smith Charitable Trust, which is headquartered in West Conshohocken, Pennsylvania. The Scholars Grant Program will receive $84,000, while the Scholarship Prize Program will receive $10,000 for the 2002 - 2003 academic year.

"We really appreciate what the W.W. Smith Charitable Trust enables us to do," said Frankie Gallagher, Assistant Director of Financial Aid at La Salle. "These scholarships really make a difference for the students who receive them."

The Scholars Grant Program allows La Salle to award 42 students scholarships in the amount of $2,000. To be eligible, students must maintain good academic standing and demonstrate financial need.

The Scholarship Prize Program, however, allows the school to select two past Scholars Grant recipients entering their senior year for $5,000 awards.

When choosing among aid applicants, the W. W. Smith Trustees' intend to help those students whose financial resources would not otherwise allow them to attend college, in particular those from the Delaware Valley whose middle-income status reduces their eligibility for other sources of financial support.

"The W.W. Smith grants help us reach students who would otherwise have to take out additional loan funding," said Gallagher. "They help us assist students who have financial need, but limited availability to aid, with the extra funding they need to attend school."

La Salle is a comprehensive, coeducational university established in 1863 by the Christian Brothers, a Roman Catholic teaching order. Today, the university educates more than 6,500 undergraduate and graduate students in nearly 60 academic disciplines at its four campuses in Philadelphia and the surrounding counties. One of seven Christian Brother colleges and universities in America and one of 72 around the world, La Salle is built on a strong tradition of quality education, service to students and overall excellence.
