Celebrating Vatican II: Revelation and the Word July 6-11

The Graduate Program in Theology and Ministry cordially invites the administration, faculty and staff of the University to the Faculty Workshops and University Lectures celebrating the achievements of the Second Vatican Council.

Monday July 7 1:30-2:45

Technology for the Bible

Andy Dolan Computer Lab, Olney Hall

Learn techniques for biblical scholarship using on-line resources. This hands-on workshop provides solid practical skills for the novice and more advanced student.

Biblical Feminism and Its Effect on Womanist Theology

Valerie Lee-Jeter Wister 308

This workshop explores the interplay and challenges arising from the perspectives of contemporary feminist biblical scholarship and the theology developed from the context of women's experience, particularly that of African-American women.

War and Peace in the Bible

Dr. Robert Bornemann Wister 310

War and peace are biblical topics. This workshop will explore how these themes appear in the bible. Participants will not explore the issues of war and peace, but will come to an understanding of how the biblical writers present the themes.

3:00-4:15

Biblical Issues and Imagery, Proclaiming God's Love to Children

Dr. Linda Dix Wister 306

The images and literary devices of Scripture often confuse children. This workshop will explore the "warrior God imagery" and the concepts of evil, struggle and suffering. The focus will be on current spiritual and catechetical resources available for ministry with children.

How the Hebrew Bible Became the Christian Old Testament

Dr. Robert Bornemann Wister 310

The text of the Christian Scriptures gives evidence of the kind of interpretation the early Christians gave to the Hebrew Bible. Dr. Bornemann will explore how they came to develop their understanding of the Hebrew Bible as the "Old Testament."

Biblical Issues and Imagery, Proclaiming God's Love to Children

Dr. Linda Dix Wister 306

The images and literary devices of Scripture often confuse children. This workshop will explore the "warrior God imagery" and the concepts of evil, struggle and suffering. The focus will be on current spiritual and catechetical resources available for ministry with children.

Friday, July 11 9:15-11:15 Dunleavy Room

The Bible, the Jews and the Christians

Dr. David Efroymsen

Response: Dr. Jacqueline Pastis,

The presentation will identify the issue of Christian anti-Judaism as it appeared at the Second Vatican Council and afterward. Attention will be given to the pervasive presence of dangerous New Testament material. Dr. Efroymsen raises the questions, "If we are not able to ignore the issue, how best are we to confront it? Is resolution possible?"
