MEMORANDUM

Date: March 22, 2002

To: To All Eligible Faculty

From: Bro. John McGoldrick
     Assistant Provost

Subject: Lindback Award Nominations

Since 1961, a generous award from the Christian R. and Mary F. Lindback Foundation has enabled La Salle to recognize excellence in teaching by members of its full-time faculty. The award is presented to a faculty member whose teaching is characterized by superior knowledge of the subject matter, vitality and inspiration in its presentation in class, and devotion to helping students realize their potential.

Nominations for the award are invited from members of the full-time faculty and students in all divisions and programs of the University. The final selection from those nominations is made by a committee composed of the Provost; the Deans of Arts and Sciences, Business, and Nursing; the President of the Faculty Senate; and the Vice President for Academic Affairs of the Students’ Government Association.

The award is presented at the annual Commencement Ceremonies in May.

This announcement has been e-mailed to all faculty members in the past few days, along with a list of eligible faculty members and a nominating ballot. This ballot can be completed, printed, signed, and then delivered to Dr. Marc Moreau (Campus Box 424). If you prefer, printed versions of the ballot and eligibility list are available in the Provost’s Office.

The deadline for nominations this year is Friday, April 5, 2002.

Thank you.
Faculty Senate Minutes of the February 13, 2002 Meeting

Excused: M. Allen, E. Giardino, M. Kerlin

Meeting called to order at 3:35 pm.

The minutes of the January 22, 2002 meeting were approved as amended.

The Senate president distributed copies of a proposed motion responding to the planned 3% salary increase for 2002-03 and opened the floor for discussion. There was a lengthy discussion about the motion, with Senators expressing varied opinions on the message the senate would be sending to the administration with the passage of the motion and the appropriate tone for such a message. While there was a general consensus that the Senate’s acceptance of the 3% raise was reluctant and that the administration needed to be reminded of prior commitments to bringing faculty salaries in line with those at our benchmark institutions, there were diverse opinions on the best way to express those concerns. Consequently, many possible ways of wording the motion were proposed throughout the discussion.

At 4:15, Senators paused in their discussion of this issue to welcome Greg Bruce and Gerry Ballough, representatives from the Presidential Strategic Planning Task Force who updated on the Senate on the work of the SPTF and solicited Senators’ opinions on how best to communicate with faculty about that work during the coming weeks.

Greg Bruce provided some background on strategic planning initiatives at La Salle since 1994 and described the role of the current SPTF. He stressed that the new process is to be viewed as a second stage in the planning process begun in 1994 and that a new strategic plan doesn’t mean that the goals outlined in the 1995 strategic plan have been abandoned. Rather this is an opportunity to engage in strategic planning specifically around the vision for La Salle established by Br. President Michael McGinniss. The SPTF is not adding to plan per se, but gathering more information on Br. McGinniss’ goals and then working on a structure for the plan, meeting with different area heads and other groups as part of this process.

Both Greg and Gerry emphasized that the SPTF desires to provide continual communications to the university community during this process. To that end, they discussed with Senators several possible options for soliciting faculty response during this process, including sending a set of questions to faculty for response and holding and open forum. The discussion with the Senate will be reported back to the SPTF as a whole and will help in guiding the SPTF in their communications with faculty. Greg and Gerry also answered questions from Senators regarding the strategic planning process.

At 5:00 pm, Senators returned to the discussion of the motion about the salary increase. After continued debate on the issue, the following motion was approved (16-0-0):

On behalf of the La Salle University faculty, the Faculty Senate notes with disappointment the 3% faculty salary increase proposed for 2002-2003, an increase that reduces to a cost-of-living adjustment. All parties agree that faculty salaries at La Salle fall short of salaries at our benchmark institutions, that the shortfall is significant, and that it has existed for a decade. The University pledges year after year to close the salary gap, and though some progress was made last year, the gap remains unacceptably large (at -7.3%). The University policy document, Agreed Practices/Conventions and Clarifications Regarding the Faculty Salary System (ed. 2/29/96), states:

If there is a deficit in the cumulative average percent increase (La Salle cumulative average minus DBG cumulative average), then the University’s goal is to eliminate the deficit as quickly as possible and within a period not to exceed three (3) fiscal years.
[Note: “DBG” denotes our “Designated Benchmark Group” of schools.]

Not only is the University out of compliance with this promise to close salary deficits, but the 3% increase is also out of compliance with agreed procedures for determining annual salary increases for full-time faculty (as CPI plus 1%), procedures that are also contained in the document, Agreed Practices.

Although faculty recognize the seriousness of the University’s overall budget deficit, we submit that faculty have already done their part to alleviate those deficits – e.g., through acceptance of the salary freezes that originally created the salary gap; through acceptance of below-market salary increases in 1993-94, 1994-95, 1995-96, 1997-98, 1998-99, 1999-2000; through acceptance of continued budget freezes for academic departments; through efforts to create new curricular and co-curricular programs and to increase average class size; through loss of faculty lines in some departments and the consequent assumption by depleted faculty ranks of additional duties that would otherwise be distributed more broadly. As evidence that faculty have been doing their part, we cite the disturbing fact that instructional costs constitute a steadily decreasing percentage of the University’s total yearly budget. Together with a heavy teaching load, the salary gap makes the University uncompetitive in the recruitment and retention of good teachers, a development that will in the long run erode the quality of education at La Salle. In light of the continuing -7.3% salary gap, faculty have exercised exemplary patience and restraint, but it is time to rebuild their confidence in the University's willingness to fulfill its promises. We therefore urge the University to submit a clear plan and schedule for closing the salary gap.

The Senate next approved a motion from Jeannie Welsh (chair of the Financial Affairs Committee) that the 3% raise be distributed as a flat percentage increase (15-0-0).

The Senate president requested that the Academic and Faculty Affairs Committee look at the definition of majority and quorum for T&P deliberations (this issue arose in a 2/13 meeting with the Senate Executive Committee and the Provost). A report from the committee was requested for the March Senate meeting.

Jeannie Welsh distributed copies of a survey that Food Services is going to distribute about smoking in dining areas. They would like the Faculty Senate to be one of the sponsors of this survey (this request came from the Health Advisory Committee). A motion to sponsor the survey was approved (15-0-0).

The Senate President reported on the current status of the Concert and Lecture series. According to an estimate from the Provost, the annual budget for that series is approximately $13,000. A Concert and Lecture committee is still in existence and charged with overseeing these funds but has not been recently convened; rather, funds have been distributed through the Provost's office on individual basis. A motion that the Senate President ask the Provost to convene the Concert and Lecture committee and that they be consulted on disbursement of those funds was approved (15-0-0).

David Robison reported that several people who taught at the Bucks County Center and had incorrect W2 forms have still not received notification.

The meeting was adjourned at 5:30.

Respectfully submitted,

Sabrina DeTurk
La Salle University’s Integrated Science, Business and Technology Program Awarded a $111,537 Grant From the National Science Foundation

La Salle University’s Integrated Science, Business and Technology (ISBT) program recently received a $111,537 grant from the Division of Undergraduate Education of the National Science Foundation’s Course Curriculum and Laboratory Improvement Program. The grant will be used to integrate problem-based learning into the ISBT curriculum.

Funds will be used over two years to purchase equipment and to support faculty and curriculum development for two new courses, Bioprocessing and Technology Foundations II - Materials.

“Bioprocessing is a part of our curriculum in order to help students understand what is happening at many of the local pharmaceutical companies,” said Marsha Timmerman, Assistant Professor of ISBT. “The program is educating students so that they can be successfully employed by local companies.”

This realistic approach is the basis of problem-based learning, as well as that of La Salle’s ISBT program as a whole.

“Our entire philosophy in the program is to transfer to the students a practical view of why they’re learning what they’re learning,” said Bill Weaver, Assistant Professor of ISBT.

“When we were putting together the ISBT program,” he continued, “one of the things we wanted to make sure of was that students had a familiarity with materials. In order to accomplish this, modern, state-of-the-art machinery is being purchased so students can learn using the equipment they will encounter post-graduation.”

“Problem-based learning is a very exciting way to teach people how to do things,” Timmerman said. “It is the way the real world works.”

Eventually, the ISBT faculty would like to incorporate problem-based learning into all aspects of the curriculum.

“Once we are successful in designing these two courses,” Weaver said, “there will of course be a ripple effect throughout the entire program.”

RE: Departmental Requisitions

Effective April 1, 2002 all departmental requisitions submitted to the Mailroom, Campus Store, and Food Service will now require a Banner account number. This includes requests for Campus Store purchases, duplicating, postage, printing, faxes, Union Market and faculty dining room charges. As of this date no requests should reference Colleague account numbers.

There are currently new forms available from the mailroom, which feature the Banner account number, called a FOAP. Please begin using these new forms as of 4/1/02. When charging an expense to your department, provide the full FOAP, with all four parts of the account number. If you are unsure of the full account number, contact an administrator in your department for guidance.

FOAP stands for Fund, Organization, Account and Program.

Please complete all fields and print your name, phone and Department name clearly on all requests so that you can be contacted if there are questions. If the information is incomplete or illegible, your request cannot be processed.

As of the above date, all requests to the Business Office should contain Banner account numbers. This includes Check requests, Purchase Orders, Office Basics orders, and all departmental requisitions (Mail/Duplicating, Food Service and Campus Store).

We appreciate your cooperation!

Blessings of the Easter Season to all members of the University Community from University Ministry & Service.
It is our duty to thank and to praise in song and prayer, to glorify the Holy One who performed all these wonders for our ancestors and for us. We were brought out from slavery to freedom, from anguish to joy, from sorrow to festivity, from darkness to great light. Let us therefore sing a new song. Praise the Eternal!

The Festival of Passover begins at sunset on Wednesday, March 27th.

Best wishes to all Jewish members of the University Community on this most happy of feasts.

March 20, 2002

Dear La Salle Community,

Please accept my heartfelt gratitude for the expression of support and community that you showed on Wednesday, March 20, 2002. This was no ordinary Charter Day. In addition to enjoying delicious food and pleasant company, you changed lives. On behalf of the coordinators for Project Appalachia, Week of Hope, and Los Niños, I thank you for donating baskets, for buying chances, and for supporting our mission.

You may know that almost 100 students participate in one of our three week-long outreach trips. You may know that we share a vision of justice and a commitment to working for change. And you certainly know that we do this work in the La Sallian name and tradition. On Charter Day, our efforts became the efforts of our entire campus. I watched in awe as you aided our trips financially through our Basket Bidding, learned about our programs, and inspired us by your generous giving.

On a personal level, this was a dream come true. Our Los Niños Team is preparing for our second annual trip to Tijuana, Mexico; we leave on May 13th. What began as an idea and a hope is now the reality of 20 students working closely with Mexican communities to build schoolhouses. More importantly, what began with a few concerned students is now the work of an entire University. I wanted to be sure to personally thank you all, and I cannot thank you enough. You brought tears to my eyes, you helped to make our trips possible, and you served the communities of Appalachia, Boston, and Mexico. The La Salle Community is truly living its Christian ideals.

In gratitude,

Michelle Sheridan

The Social Work Program is offering the following electives open to the campus community.

SWK 375A: Family Violence
Tuesdays, 6:15 – 8:55 p.m.
Donna Fiedler, Ph.D.

Family Violence: Dynamics, Impact, and Interventions

This course is for any student interested in the issue of family violence. The course will include the different types of family violence and understanding the dynamics when violence occurs. The course will explore the repercussions coming from family violence. Finally, there will be an exploration of possible interventions.

SWK 370A: Working with Older People
Saturdays, Flex Schedule
Bonni H. Zetick, Ph.D.

The aging of society is having a profound impact on our society and on families. The way we organize and deliver social services will continue to be affected by the increasing proportion of the population that is over the age of sixty years. This course will examine issues related to working with older people. Topics such as elder abuse, the challenges of caregiving for people with dementia or Alzheimer’s, and depression among the elderly will be discussed. Models for delivering long-term care will be identified, including community-based services as well as nursing homes. The course is open to all majors, with no prerequisites.

SWK 350: Loss and Grief
Tuesdays/Thursdays, 11:00 – 12:15 p.m.
Janine Mariscotti, MSW, LCSW

This course is designed for undergraduate students who are interested in learning about the processes of attachment, loss, and grieving. The course explores loss, in life and in preparation for death, addressing both acceptable and disenfranchised loss and grief. Students will increase awareness of their personal responses to loss, will gain a professional understanding of normal and complicated grief, and will learn ways to facilitate healthy grief work.

For more information, please contact the course instructor.

EMPIRICALLY SUPPORTED TREATMENT
The Need to Justify Your Approach to Working With Clients
Frank L. Gardner, Ph.D.
Director Psy.D. Program in Clinical Psychology

Dr. Frank Gardner earned his Ph.D. in School-Community Psychology from Hofstra University. He holds the position of team psychologist for a number of professional sports teams. Dr. Gardner is the former Program Director of the Sport-Exercise Psychology Program at the Arizona School of Professional Psychology and he currently works as a consultant with North Shore Hospital in New York. Much of Dr. Gardner’s work has included the areas of performance enhancement and dysfunction, consultation in professional sports and business, and psychological assessment and team building in business and industry.

Fueled by both its own empirical tradition and pressures from managed care, organized psychology has begun the arduous process of defining best practices in the treatment of a wide range of disorders across the lifespan. This presentation will detail the history of the evidence-based movement in psychology with particular emphasis on the work of the APA, Division 12 (Clinical Psychology) Task Force on the Development and Dissemination of Empirically Supported Psychological Treatments. An overview of the current EST list and its implications for education, training, and supervision of psychologists-in-training will be discussed. In addition, the implications for the EST movement for ethical clinical practice, risk management for psychologists, and future psychotherapy research will be discussed in depth.

“Educational Technology: A New Grammar for 21st Century Teachers”

Wednesday, April 3rd at 3:00 PM in Room 310 of the La Salle Union

With increased technological awareness in our nation’s schools, future LaSalle students will be arriving eager to apply their talents to college course work. Our challenge as university professors is to develop our ability to weave educational technology into meaningful instruction. Dr. Sweeder will propose a newer and broader definition and model of educational technology and explore ways of adopting this definition and model to engage our students in new ways, refine our pedagogy, and better prepare ourselves – and our students – for this still-new millennium.

Assistant Director for Student Financial Services

The La Salle University Office of Student Financial Services (SFS) has an opening for an Assistant Director. The SFS is a new office that combines financial aid and billing services into one office to provide effective financial counseling for our students.

In addition to other administrative duties, this position requires the candidate to perform all billing operations and create systems to insure that all students are regularly and correctly billed for tuition, room, board and other University charges. This position also requires the candidate to counsel students and their families concerning their University charges and discuss available financing options as well.

A Bachelor’s degree, computer expertise, attention to detail, and a commitment to providing outstanding customer service are all required. Banner or student account receivable experiences a plus. Salary and title dependent upon experience.

Full benefit package including tuition remission. “La Salle University is a Roman Catholic university in the tradition of the De La Salle Christian Brothers and welcomes applicants from all backgrounds who can contribute to our unique educational mission. For a complete mission statement, please visit our website at www.lasalle.edu.”
