   B. Title needed for this year's Health Fair – Committee members to come up with ideas to present at next meeting.

III. HIPAA compliance
   A. Dina Oleksiak and Lane Neubauer reported that they attended a teleconference on HIPAA issues related to College Health. Since both Student Health Center and the Counseling Center do not engage in electronic transmission of information and do not accept third party payments, these units which serve La Salle students are not considered covered entities and thus not subjected to HIPAA legislation. However, since La Salle University is consider a 'hybrid' entity i.e. other units are providing health services such as the Neighborhood Nursing Center, the Good Shepherd Community Center for Counseling and Psychological Services, etc., there is a need for each program to look into whether it is considered to be a covered entity and be accountable for themselves.

IV. Robert Chapman will be first on the agenda at the next Health Advisory Committee meeting (Nov. 26th) to discuss the CORE survey as time ran out before he could make his report.

Respectfully submitted by Lane B. Neubauer Ph.D.

From: Mr. John Gallagher, Security & Safety Department

Subject: Main Campus Parking Concern & Enforcement

Starting November 11th, 2002 any autos parked in unauthorized areas on Main Campus will be issued a traffic violation.

The Security and Safety Department makes every effort to accommodate the parking needs of the university community, its visitors and guests. However at times due to the limited number of spaces on Main Campus, some requests cannot be fulfilled.

Authorized parking spaces on Main Campus are limited. Parking within the Main Campus has become congested to the point that an excessive number of vehicles are parking in non-authorized areas and roadways. This condition is most prevalent Monday through Friday during the regular hours of work/class behind McShain Hall, in the front of Olney Hall and near the “Quad” wall.

In some cases, invited guests or visitors have been authorized to park in non-designated parking areas. However, most of the time the majority of autos parking in these areas display a Main Campus permit hangtag. Not only does this condition give the appearance of clutter; it has safety considerations when viewed from the point of having emergency vehicle access through the congested roadways. In addition, the current parking conditions on Main Campus inhibits university service departments from completing their daily tasks and would surely interfere with future snow removal efforts.

Having a Main Campus permit does not guarantee a parking space on campus, nor, does it authorize parking in other than authorized parking spaces. If there are no legal spaces available on Main Campus, authorized parking spaces must be utilized in the Faculty/Staff parking areas.

In an effort to address this concern and better manage on-campus parking, the Security and Safety Department asks that all personnel refrain from parking in non-authorized areas. Absent voluntary compliance, traffic notices will be issued to autos found parked in violation of the Traffic Control Policy.

If you have a situation that requires special consideration, please contact the Security and Safety Department to discuss an appropriate solution. Your cooperation and understanding will be appreciated.

The following item appeared in Michael Klein’s “INQlings” column in The Philadelphia Inquirer on October 3, 2002. The Office of University Communications feels this represents La Salle “at its best” and wished to share it with the University community.

A special diploma

Elizabeth Ewing Imperato of Medford was on her way to getting a master’s degree in pastoral counseling from La Salle University when she learned she had cancer. On bad days, her husband, Gene, a metallurgist, drove her to and from class. On really bad days, Gene took notes for her.

The Rev. Frank Berna, chairman of La Salle’s graduate department of religion, said he noticed her academic drive, and her progressing illness. Imperato, 54, was told that her melanoma was terminal. La Salle’s commencement in May seemed impossible.

On Sept. 14, La Salle gathered faculty, friends and four of her five children at the student union and held a commencement.

Understanding the "Academy for Leadership in Global Understanding"

Thursday, November 14, 12:30-1:50
Location: Olney 209
Facilitators: Marjorie Allen & Bob Vogel

"Since 1999, the Presidents of nearly 450 colleges and universities have signed the Presidents' Fourth of July Declaration on the Civic Responsibility of Higher Education. That declaration challenges institutions of Higher Education in America "to renew our role as agents of our democracy" and declares that challenge "a fundamental task"[www.Compact.org]. The Academy for Leadership in Global Understanding is our response to this "fundamental task." One of the main concerns of that document is "the disengagement of college students from democratic participation." The mission of the Academy is the "reengagement" of La Salle's undergraduate students in the life of their communities, both local and global. … We intend to place civic responsibility and global understanding at the center of a student's education and at the center of the La Salle experience. The goal of the Academy is nothing less than transformation—of the individual students who take these courses and participate in these programs, of the faculty who teach in them and of the entire La Salle campus.” (From the mission statement for the Academy for Leadership in Global Understanding)

At this session you will have the chance to hear more about the ways in which the Academy will increase students' understanding of their role in a global society through engaged learning and an emphasis on civic responsibility and also to ask questions and learn about opportunities for faculty involvement in this program.

Bring your lunch – drinks and dessert will be provided!
