Subject: Final Examination Scheduling

A discussion at a recent meeting of the Academic Affairs Committee focused on issues related to scheduling and supervision of semester final examinations. On the following pages are a proposed schedule and rationale developed by Mr. Ricci, Vice President for Enrollment Services.

Prior to further discussion of this matter by the Academic Affairs Committee, the Provost would like to have input from you on this scheduling proposal. While a response via paper memo is fine, an e-mail (mcgoldri@lasalle.edu) and/or digital document would be more valuable, as these formats would allow for easier collection and editing. In any case, I would appreciate your response by the close of business on Wednesday, April 16, 2003.

Thank you.

Enrollment Services is recommending that, effective with the fall semester 2003, we change the procedure that is used to schedule final examinations for the Day Division. We are recommending that the day and time of the examination for a particular section of a particular course be based upon the day and time that the class actually meets. By making this change, we will realize the following benefits:

1. We will eliminate the need for finding and assigning examination proctors. Faculty have frequently requested that we schedule examinations in such a way so that they can proctor their own exams.

2. Examinations will be held in the same room where the class is scheduled further reducing prep work in publishing an examination schedule.

3. There will be fewer examination conflicts for students. In a small number of cases, some students could have three exams scheduled for one day. In such cases, we could consider this a statutory conflict but under the new system, there will be no physical conflicts.

4. Adjunct faculty will be assured that their final examination(s) will be scheduled on a day of the week when their class is actually taught.

5. The final examination schedule will be published automatically at the beginning of each semester.

There is one notable disadvantage to this system. Faculty who teach multiple sections of the same course will have to prepare more than one final for their courses since each class will have its examination scheduled at different times.
And the winners are ...

Come to the Union Ballroom on Wednesday, April 23, 2003, at 6PM and meet some of the best of the 2003 graduates. A reception will follow. Call x1374 if you plan on attending and feel free to invite family and friends.

Ben Franklin Technology Partners of Southeastern Pennsylvania and La Salle University Launch New Entrepreneurship Program to Promote High-Tech, Product-Focused Businesses

Undergraduate and graduate students at La Salle University will have access to a $10,000 investment to help them develop high-technology, innovation-based, and product-focused businesses through Tech-Invest, a new entrepreneurship challenge grant program launched by Ben Franklin Technology Partners of Southeastern Pennsylvania (BFTP/SEP) and La Salle.

"Ben Franklin's partnership with La Salle University is consistent with our mission to develop and support innovative programs that capitalize on regional strengths such as institutions of higher learning and the reservoir of human capital that they attract," notes RoseAnn B. Rosenthal, President and CEO, BFTP/SEP.

"La Salle is proud to work with our alumni, benefactors and Ben Franklin to fashion Tech-Invest," said Marsha Timmerman, a professor in La Salle’s Integrated Science, Business and Technology (ISBT) program. “By combining our respective organizations' entrepreneurial development resources, we create a well-rounded partnership with a solid win/win outcome.”

Tech-Invest is the latest addition to BFTP/SEP's strategy to link talent and resources to promote the growth of the region's knowledge economy. Other components of BFTP/SEP’s efforts in this area include:

- Customized lectures and special presentations at area colleges and universities;
- Support for The Wistar Institute's award-winning Biomedical Technician Training Program;
- Seed capital and incubation support for CampusPhilly, an initiative dedicated to attracting students to regional colleges and institutions and retaining them post graduation;
- Joint sponsorship of the Venture Internship Program at Muhlenberg College;
- Support for the development of High Tech High School's entrepreneurial curriculum;
- Co-founder of the Ben Franklin/ITT Technical Institute Scholarship.

Entrepreneurship Program/Add one

La Salle University has a long history of administering premier entrepreneurial programs, including:

- The University's School of Business Administration (SBA) ran a very successful Small Business Development Center for nearly three decades. The Center subsequently merged with Temple University's Center;
- Graduate assistants have supported neighborhood entrepreneurial and economic development endeavors since the mid-1990s;
- The E-Commerce Institute was launched in 1999;
- La Salle's "Entrepreneurship and High Technology Business" course is specifically designed to teach entrepreneurship from the technologists' perspective;
- The three-year-old chapter of Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE) promotes entrepreneurship through special outreach and community education programs.

The first recipient of the Tech-Invest challenge grant program is slated to be announced in early summer 2003.

Ben Franklin Technology Partners of Southeastern Pennsylvania is dedicated to growing the region through science, technology and entrepreneurship. Now commemorating 20 years of innovation excellence, BFTP/SEP provides entrepreneurs and established businesses the capital, talent, and expertise they need to compete. Like its namesake, BFTP/SEP invests in, builds upon and delivers solutions that grow communities and create new wealth by supporting today's technological ideas and tomorrow's scientific discovery.

The Diplomat-In-Residence Program

Presents

The Ven. Palden Gyatso

Wednesday, April 9
1 pm
Dan Rodden Theatre

Introduction by Dr. Charles Desnoyers

Co-sponsored with the Department of Religion

Palden Gyatso was born in 1933 and raised in a small Tibetan village. At the age of eighteen, he became an ordained Buddhist monk at one of Tibet’s most famous monasteries, Drepung Monastery. In 1959, when Communist China invaded Tibet, thousands of Tibetans who did not approve of the brutal occupation of their country were arrested and put in prison. Palden Gyatso was jailed by the Chinese authorities for being a “reactionary element.”

Palden Gyatso spent most of the next 33 years in Chinese prison. Every time he would finish serving one of his long sentences, he would be re-arrested for taking part in political activities opposing the Chinese occupation. While in prison, Palden Gyatso endured violent physical and psychological torture. The Chinese authorities tried every means possible to break his spirit of resistance and his will to continue fighting for Tibetan freedom. He was beaten, shocked with electric cattle prods, and suspended from the ceiling above a burning fire.

Palden Gyatso never gave up his determination to fight for his country’s freedom. In 1992, when he finally finished his last prison sentence, Palden Gyatso managed to escape to India, carrying with him some of torture instruments that had been used on him. Since his escape, he has traveled the world speaking to people about his horrendous experiences in jail and his continued mission to expose the injustice of the Chinese occupation of Tibet. He has testified in front of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights and the US Congress. Palden Gyatso is also the author of "The Autobiography of a Tibetan Monk" and "Fire Under the Snow: Testimony of a Tibetan Prisoner."

By all accounts, the integration of part-time faculty into the campus community is a critical issue facing any college or university that relies on part-time faculty for significant portions of the educational program.

This session, sponsored by the Teaching and Learning Center and facilitated by Brooks Aylor and Lynne Texter of the Communication Department, will use the example of one department's approach to orienting and integrating part-time faculty as a stimulus for discussion of how other departments and programs can continue and improve on efforts to create a welcoming and enriching environment for their part-time faculty.

Save the Date – April 8, 12:30 – 2:00, Olney 109

Chairs and program directors are particularly encouraged to attend this session, but all faculty – and especially part-time faculty – are also very welcome. Please RSVP by April 7 to Sabrina DeTurk, x5005 or deturk@lasalle.edu.
