Student Press Committee
March 16, 2004 Minutes

Absent: David Falcone, Cornelia Tsakiridou, Kevin Hyslop
Excused: Tonya Ellis

I. Management Seminar: A spot is reserved for next year's Collegian editor for Management Seminar at the Cox Newspaper Institute for Newspaper Management Studies, U. Of Georgia in July. Tom Namako the current Editor went to the Seminar last summer and said it was “incredible and beneficial.”

II. Collegian Web Edition: A concern of the committee was whether the Collegian Web edition would be an open website or on myласalle. The Web edition must represent LaSallian values. Tom said that the Collegian has taken into consideration that the values of LaSalle must be represented by the Web edition of the newspaper along with the print edition. Tom suggests an open website approach and that the content will have to be formatted to fit into the space. A disclaimer could be represented on the website stating “Views of Collegian Editor not those of La Salle University.” In order to fit the newspaper into the limited space Tom stated that no or very few ads would be on the website and only small pictures if needed. The Collegian would also be archived on the website in order for users to access previous issues of the newspaper.

Anna asked who would review the Web Collegian in comparison to the newspaper? This was not decided upon by the committee. She also suggested that one person cannot be assigned to review the print vs. web edition.

Tom noted that there is a website editor and staff who are ready and waiting to produce a Collegian Web edition. The issue of whether there would be a delay between the hard copy and web edition newspaper was discussed. Tom stated that the delay would probably be a next-day delay which is only natural in order to put everything onto the website.

Anna suggested getting the tools in house instead of working from home, Tom noted that this issue will be reflected in the next year’s budget to the Funding Board.

III. Charges: Contrary to earlier pronouncements, the Student Press Committee charges this year were not to include efforts to “improve the campus culture regarding the use of alcohol and other drugs.” The committee decided that Dr. Chapman was not going to be invited back in April. John Beatty will relay the message to him and suggest that he arrange meetings with the student media.

IV. Issues of concern related to college newspapers: Long Island University’s former adviser and journalism professor published a student’s grades in their college newspaper. The professor defended himself by stating, “right to know supersedes the right to privacy.” The grades posted were those of the former Student Government Association’s president who resigned allegedly because his grades were slipping. John noted that student media need to be aware of privacy rights, specifically FERPA.

Baylor University newspaper ran an editorial supporting gay marriage, which is not a Christian teaching, therefore was seen by the Baylor administration to be in violation of the private University’s policies. The committee noted that private universities have more latitude in controlling the content of student media than do state-owned universities.

V. Post Publication Review of Collegian issue 11/6/03: John Beatty will finalize the review on this issue.

VI. Other Matters: Anna suggested that Student Press Committee meetings be used to give the media ideas for stories.

VII. The Next Meeting date was set as Tuesday, April 13, 2004 during the universal free period beginning at 12:30pm.
