On Monday, June 21, the City Council of Philadelphia made permanent the reconfiguration of 20th Street between Olney and Belfield Avenues to a one-lane, one-way, up-hill traffic pattern, and deeded the western portion of the street to La Salle.

These changes were developed under the guidance and with the support of the City Streets Department, City Managing Director Philip Goldsmith, and his two predecessors, Estelle Richmond and Joseph Martz. Most importantly, they are the product of a consultative process between neighborhood block captains, individual neighbors, elected officials, and the University. Under the leadership of Edward A. Turzanski, Assistant Vice President for Government and Community Relations, this process led to a result that has improved the overall safety, security, and quality of life of our immediate community. As importantly, this experience has given us a template that will be used so that we can collectively address other quality of life issues to make our neighborhood a better one in which to live, work, and study.

The ordinances approving these changes, which received the enthusiastic support of Councilwoman Donna Reed Miller (our District representative), Council President Anna Verna, Councilman Frank DiCicco (whose committee voted in favor of the changes by a margin of 6 to 1), Councilman James Kenney (La Salle, ’80), Mayor Street, Governor Rendell, Congressman Robert Brady (our representative in Congress), State Representative Dwight Evans (La Salle, ’75), and other legislators, were passed by an overwhelming margin of 16 in favor and 1 against.

In announcing this important City action for the betterment of our community, it should be noted that the support of those government officials and civil servants mentioned above is motivated by a desire to serve the public good, and by a recognition of the important role that La Salle plays in providing its immediate community, the City, and the region with educational opportunity and economic stability. Every member of the City Council has within his or her District a La Salle family that has benefited from its relationship with the University, and that has made its own contributions to the community within which it lives. For this we have you to thank — every one of you who touches the lives of our students, our neighbors, and your home communities.

To every one of you who contributed to this success by doing your job with honest conviction and hard labor, I give my sincere, heartfelt thanks.

Sincerely,

Michael J. McGinniss, F.S.C.
